elementary 1 - friction & ramps - ite - friction the challenge determine the angle and material covering on a ramp that results in a vehicle's moving the fastest. young kids learn by exploring, observing, and figuring out the way things work by experimenting, and exploring ramps and friction encourages this. coefficient of friction - tcna - the potential for a person to slip, the german ramp determines coefficient of friction and the potential for slip with a person walking on a ramp as the surface becomes increasingly steep. lubricants such as soapy water and oil can be added to simulate contaminated conditions. the bot-3000 and the gmg devices correlate more closely with the ramp the ramp (and friction) phet simulation lab introduction - the ramp (and friction) phet simulation lab introduction: when an object is dragged across a horizontal surface, the force of friction that must be overcome depends on the normal force as $f_f = \mu_n$ and the normal force is given by $f_n = mg$. when the surface becomes an inclined plane, the dynamics - pulleys, ramps, and friction - somewhat down the ramp and somewhat into the track. for this reason we need to consider forces both parallel to the ramp and perpendicular to it. the parallel forces determine the acceleration of the cart along the track, while the perpendicular forces determine the amount of friction between the cart and the track. determining the coefficient of friction for various tires ... - determining the coefficient of friction for various tires on a ramp. an experiment involving the forces on various polymers. background information: tire companies invest a lot of money researching different properties of rubbers to make them ideal for making tires. lab: friction - dixie middle school science - objective: to determine which surfaces have the least/most friction. procedures: each table in the lab is set up with a track with a different surface. you will set the ramp on the ring stand at varying heights and time how long it takes for a car to roll down the ramp. you will do this 3 times at each height and
